

The iBloodPressure Plus can measure the health data of one or two users. It is important to always measure your blood pressure by selecting the same USER button every time. Before taking your first measurement, decide if you will be USER 1 or USER 2.

Loosely roll up your sleeve so that your left arm is exposed. Place the cuff about 1 inch above your elbow. Tighten the cuff so that it is snug while still being able to fit a finger underneath.

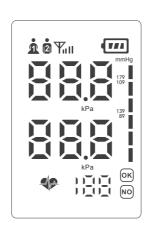

Quietly sit at a table and relax for 5 minutes before taking your reading. Make sure your arm is at heart level, palm facing up, and your feet are flat on the floor, uncrossed.

Remain quiet and still during the measurement. Excessive moving or talking may affect the measurement.

Press either USER 1 or USER 2, depending on which button you chose in step one. The symbols will appear on the display. The pump will begin to inflate.

When the measurement is complete, the arm cuff deflates automatically, and the blood pressure values and pulse rate appears on the display.

BOM:

When your measurement has been successfully transmitted, the wireless communication symbol flashes and then lights up. Press the SET button to turn the monitor off. Or the monitor will automatically turn off after about 60 seconds.
